

Jeong-Hyuck Park's Life

Do you want to hear how someone became a physicist? Then, shall I talk about my dad's life? Jeong-Hyuck Park was born in Seoul Korea on Christmas Eve, 1971. When he was young, he liked swimming, although his father wanted to go climbing with him. When he was in elementary school he didn't have a specific dream job. He just wanted to be a salary man wearing a formal suit.

However, in middle school he began to have a dream. He noticed that physics could explain everything in the world and nature. And he also thought that everyone should study Physics. So he decided to become a physicist.

He studied physics in Seoul until finishing undergraduate. And then He went to Cambridge in England to further study physics. While learning physics in Cambridge, it was hard for him to communicate with others in English. However, he successfully completed his study and received his diploma.

He came back to Korea and became a physics professor in Sogang University and is still working there. Now, he has a family that he is very proud of. He has also done a lot of research in his field. He often enjoys swimming which makes him fit and feel absolutely free. And by the way, he does not like wearing a formal suit!